

SELF

SUPPORT FOR EARLY LEARNING & FAMILIES

■ SELF's mission is "to launch and lead community partnerships that build an integrated system of support for young children and their families." SELF is a collaborative of supporting organizations that are like-minded in the care and nurture of children. SELF is a network of resources to serve children's needs and is a clearinghouse and resource center for information.

Parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles, and neighbors can use SELF's one-stop early learning website to find information about education, health and wellness, parenting, activities for parents and children, and much more. SELF is striving to be the leading resource for information about early learning to ensure that all children are ready and equipped for kindergarten.

To learn more about resources, information and how you can support early learning in Clark County, visit:

www.selfwa.org

360.213.3486 : 13504 NE 84th St. Suite 103-137 Vancouver, WA 98682

SELF

SUPPORT FOR EARLY LEARNING & FAMILIES

SELFVA.ORG has three distinct areas that represent the various individuals and groups who use the website.

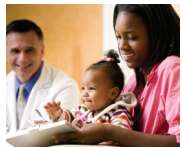

Families & Neighbors – Information for people nurturing and parenting children is included in this area of the website. This includes parents, adopted parents, single parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles, foster parents and neighbors.

Providers – Information for individuals working directly with children or indirectly through careers that benefit early learners and families.

Community – Information for advocates, system influencers, donors, business community and others who understand the importance investing in children but do not necessarily work directly with children.

Washington State Department of Early Learning

This brochure is funded by a generous grant from the Washington State Department of Early Learning.

To learn more about resources, information and how you can support early learning in Clark County, visit:

www.selfva.org

360.213.3486 : 13504 NE 84th St. Suite 103-137 Vancouver, WA 98682